Aaron Hernandez denied bail based on 'very strong' case

Murder probe. The former Patriots player may be linked to a 2012 double murder.

Calling it a "very, very strong circumstantial case," a judge on Thursday denied bail for former New England Patriots tight end Aaron Hernandez, who is charged with first-degree murder in the death of a 27-year-old Dorchester man.

Hernandez, 23, was arrested Wednesday and formally charged hours later for allegedly shooting and killing Odin Lloyd execution-style on June 17 in an industrial area in North Attleboro. His lawyer Thursday argued that Hernandez was not a flight risk, and that the case against him is circumstantial.

The Boston Globe shed light on a possible motive Thursday by reporting that investigators believe that Lloyd may have had information about Hernandez's suspected role in a 2012 double slaying in Downtown Boston.

The case deepens

The high-profile case broadened Thursday following the arrest of Carlos Ortiz, 27, of Bristol, Conn.

- He is suspected of accompanying Hernandez during Lloyd's murder.
- He was charged as a fugitive from justice, and is being held on $1.5 million bail at a Hartford jail.

Sources said that on July 16, a fight broke out at South End club Cure before Safiro Furtado, 28, and Daniel Abreu, 29, were shot dead at a traffic light at the intersection of Shawmut Avenue and Herald Street.

Witnesses told police the shooter was in a gray or silver SUV with Rhode Island plates.

Investigators believe that Lloyd may have had information about Hernandez's suspected role in the double slaying.

Suffolk County District Attorney Dan Conley confirmed an investigation into the drive-by shooting was "active and ongoing" but declined to comment on whether Hernandez was a suspect.

On Wednesday night, TMZ.com posted a photo of Hernandez "brandishing a Glock handgun. You can see a magazine inserted into the gun, but it's unclear if it was loaded."

The selfie was reportedly taken in Florida in 2009.

Cloud caution. Bill seeks to protect student info

Parents and technology experts asked lawmakers on Thursday to protect children's privacy as school districts contemplate using cloud technology that would store vital student data.

Massachusetts is one of five states willing to participate in the development and pilot testing of inBloom, a Gates Foundation initiative aimed at helping school districts simplify computer systems to record student information, administer tests, analyze performance, train teachers and gather data. The goal is to reduce the cost of maintaining student information. SHNS

Health. City announces free summer fitness class

Mayor Thomas Menino on Thursday announced the launch of Fitness in the City, a free summertime fitness series.

The program follows the success of last year's Fitness on the Plaza, which attracted more than 2,400 participants.

"Getting people out and active adds to the vitality of our city, and it's a great way to promote healthy habits," Menino said.

Classes like boot camp, Zumba and Pilates will take place in Faneuil Hall, the Greenway and the Martini Memorial Shell Park in Hyde Park. METRO/MR

Police warn about Dot burglaries

Boston police issued a community alert June 27 after a rash of house burglaries in Dorchester this month.

The first robbery occurred June 17, when the burglars entered the Crockett Avenue home through the back door and took various items.

The most recent break-in occurred Wednesday on Glenrose Road. The homeowner said he confronted the man, who fled to a waiting car and took off.

At least six burglaries have occurred since June 17. METRO

Retired FBI agent: My 'bad judgment' led Bulger to murder

Whitey trial. A retired FBI supervisor testified June 27 about the bribes he received from Bulger and pals.

A retired FBI agent testified June 27 that it was his "bad judgment" that led him to divulge information about a cooperating witness who was then allegedly killed by James "Whitey" Bulger and his gang.

John Morris, who supervised convicted and corrupt FBI agent John Connolly, took the witness stand in Bulger's racketeering and murder trial.

Morris, sitting just feet away from the 83-year-old alleged mob boss, testified he told Connolly about Brian Halloran's cooperation with authorities. Halloran, a Winter Hill Gang member, was talking to the FBI about a murder allegedly orchestrated and carried out by Bulger and his associates.

Morris told Connolly, who was Bulger's handler, that Halloran was cooperating and about to go into witness protection. Halloran was later killed.

"I was embarrassed that I did that," Morris said, adding that it was in "bad judgment."

Morris, who has received immunity from the government, also testified that he received gifts from Bulger.

Morris also said that during a training visit to Georgia, he called Connolly to ask if Bulger and associate Stephen Flemmi could pay for a plane ticket for his girlfriend to fly down to join him. They provided him with $1,000 for the ticket, he said.

Bulger's lawyer repeatedly asked Morris about instances during which he lied, and Morris confirmed the lies.

Bulger curses at witness

A federal prosecutor asked a judge to admonish Bulger for calling a witness "a [expletive] liar" while the witness was testifying.

An angry Assistant U.S. Attorney Brian Kelly stood up after the jury left the courtroom and asked Judge Denise Casper to reprimand Bulger. Kelly said Bulger turned to former FBI agent John Morris and used the expletive.

Casper said she didn't hear the comment, but asked Bulger's attorney to talk to him and told Bulger those actions wouldn't be allowed. Bulger said he understood.

Bulger's lawyer said he would talk to Bulger.

Indictment brought against bombing suspect

Dzhokhar Tsarnaev

A federal grand jury on June 27 returned a 30-count indictment against alleged Boston Marathon bomber Dzhokhar Tsarnaev.

The 75-page document accuses the 19-year-old of using weapons of mass destruction, killing four people, conspiracy, carjacking and using illegal firearms with intent to kill.

During a press conference announcing the charges, U.S. Attorney for the District of Massachusetts Carmen Ortiz said Tsarnaev and his deceased brother, Tamerlan, took steps to prepare for the bombing, including visiting a New Hampshire firing range and purchasing 200 rounds of ammunition, ordering parts to build an improvised explosive device and downloading a publication on how to build a bomb.

"The defendant faces up to life and possibly death, if convicted," Ortiz said.

She also outlined the events leading up to Tsarnaev's capture, alleging that three days after the bombings the brothers armed themselves with five IEDs, a 9 mm handgun, ammunition, a machete and a hunting knife before driving to the MIT campus and shooting Campus Police Officer Sean Collier in the head at close range.

The brothers then carjacked a Mercedes at gunpoint and attempted to flee to Manhattan, she said, but the plans were thwarted when the carjacking victim escaped and called 911.

During a shoot-out with police, Ortiz said Tsarnaev "drove over his brother Tamerlan, seriously injuring him and contributing to his death."

Suffolk District Attorney Daniel Conley, who attended the press conference, said, "Tamerlan Tsarnaev's justice will be in the next world, but, for his brother, accountability will be right here in the district of Massachusetts."

MORGAN ROUSSEAU

Possible motive

Messages Tsarnaev allegedly wrote while injured and hiding from police in a boat in Watertown:

- "The U.S. Government is killing our innocent civilians;" "I can't stand to see such evil go unpunished;" and "We Muslims are one body you hurt one you hurt us all."

Some gay couples can get 'Obamacare' benefits

Health. Affordable Care Act establishes exchanges to explore all health care options in one place.

The Supreme Court's ruling that same-sex couples are eligible for federal benefits will mean more gays and lesbians can reap the benefits of President Barack Obama's health care overhaul, advocates say.

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act already bans discrimination in health coverage based on sexual orientation or gender identity. The law, known as "Obamacare," was passed in 2010 and upheld by the Supreme Court.

DOMA celebration / BESS ADLER,METRO

Same-sex couples who live in states that recognize them can apply for the law's tax subsidies, meant to offset health care costs, as a couple rather than as two individuals, said Tim Jost, a health law expert and law professor at Washington and Lee University. This will help the law reach more people, he added.

Some couples will be newly eligible for spousal protections under Medicaid, a federally funded program that provides care to low-income parents, children, seniors and people with disabilities.

If couples decide to file taxes jointly, they may no longer qualify for Medicaid or tax credits because their combined income may put them above the level for eligibility. REUTERS

ARE YOU PEEKING, UNCLE SAM?

TOM FOREMAN
POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

CNN=POLITICS

Like many of you, I was uneasy when I first learned about this whole domestic surveillance scheme. Every time I heard a click on the phone I would shout, "Axelrod? Is that you?" The other night, I noticed a car lurking behind mine, so I rolled down my window, leaned out, and screamed, "Why are you following me?" I'm pretty sure that guy was a spy, because his eyes grew wide and he raced right out of the drive-through line without even picking up his food.

But now that I have thought it over, I'm beginning to see potential advantages to having the government record my electronic life. For starters, a friend emailed a fantastic recipe for bread pudding to me that I have completely lost. What better way to find it than with a quick call? "Hello, is this the NSA? Did you notice anything in my file that has the word 'cinnamon'?"

Quoted

Maybe we should expand the program. The U.S. intelligence community seems perfectly happy to be a ginormous, free cloud storage system, and having someone else keep track of everything we say, write or photograph could benefit us all.

A couple of years ago, I dropped my cellphone into a puddle and then ran over it with my car. Don't ask. The people at the phone store, once they stopped giggling, told me there was no way to recover the contacts, but who knows what the helpful folks at the FBI might be able to do?

The possibilities are endless. I could recover that long lost digital photo of my dog looking exactly like Ashton Kutcher, or they could help me locate that YouTube clip of the Bolivian ventriloquist, and if the IRS ever wants to audit my taxes, I'll just say, "Call the CIA. They already have my records!"

Maybe we should expand the program. The U.S. intelligence community seems perfectly happy to be a ginormous, free cloud storage system, and having someone else keep track of everything we say, write or photograph could benefit us all. Well, maybe not Paula Deen and Anthony Weiner, but still.

And if the only trade out is that I find Biden lurking in my bushes now and then, I can live with that.

Immigration

Senate passes reform bill

A reform supporter exits the Capitol. / GETTY IMAGES

The Senate approved a landmark immigration bill on Thursday that would provide millions of undocumented immigrants a chance to become citizens, but the leader of the House of Representatives said the measure was dead on arrival in the House.

In a rare show of bipartisanship, the Democratic-controlled Senate passed the bill by a vote of 68-32, with 14 of the Senate's 46 Republicans joining all 52 Democrats and two independents in support of the bill.

A packed gallery of supporters, who have labored decades for such a moment, witnessed the vote, which came after three weeks of sometimes heated debate.

They were fully aware that hours before the vote, House Speaker John Boehner reiterated that Republicans would "do our own bill," one that "reflects the will of our majority," many of whom oppose citizenship for immigrants who are in the United States illegally.

While a combined vote of House Democrats and Republicans could conceivably team up to pass the measure, Boehner repeated that he would not allow consideration of any measure that does not have the support of most of the House's 234 Republicans. REUTERS

CULTURE

Sneak attack pioneer

This sneak attack approach isn't exactly brand new. Mash-up artist Gregg Gillis built up a big word-of-mouth following with the 2006 Girl Talk album, "Night Ripper." For the two Girl Talk albums that followed — 2008's "Feed the Animals" and 2010's "All Day" — he just quietly leaked them online and watched the reaction spread across the worldwide web like wildfire.

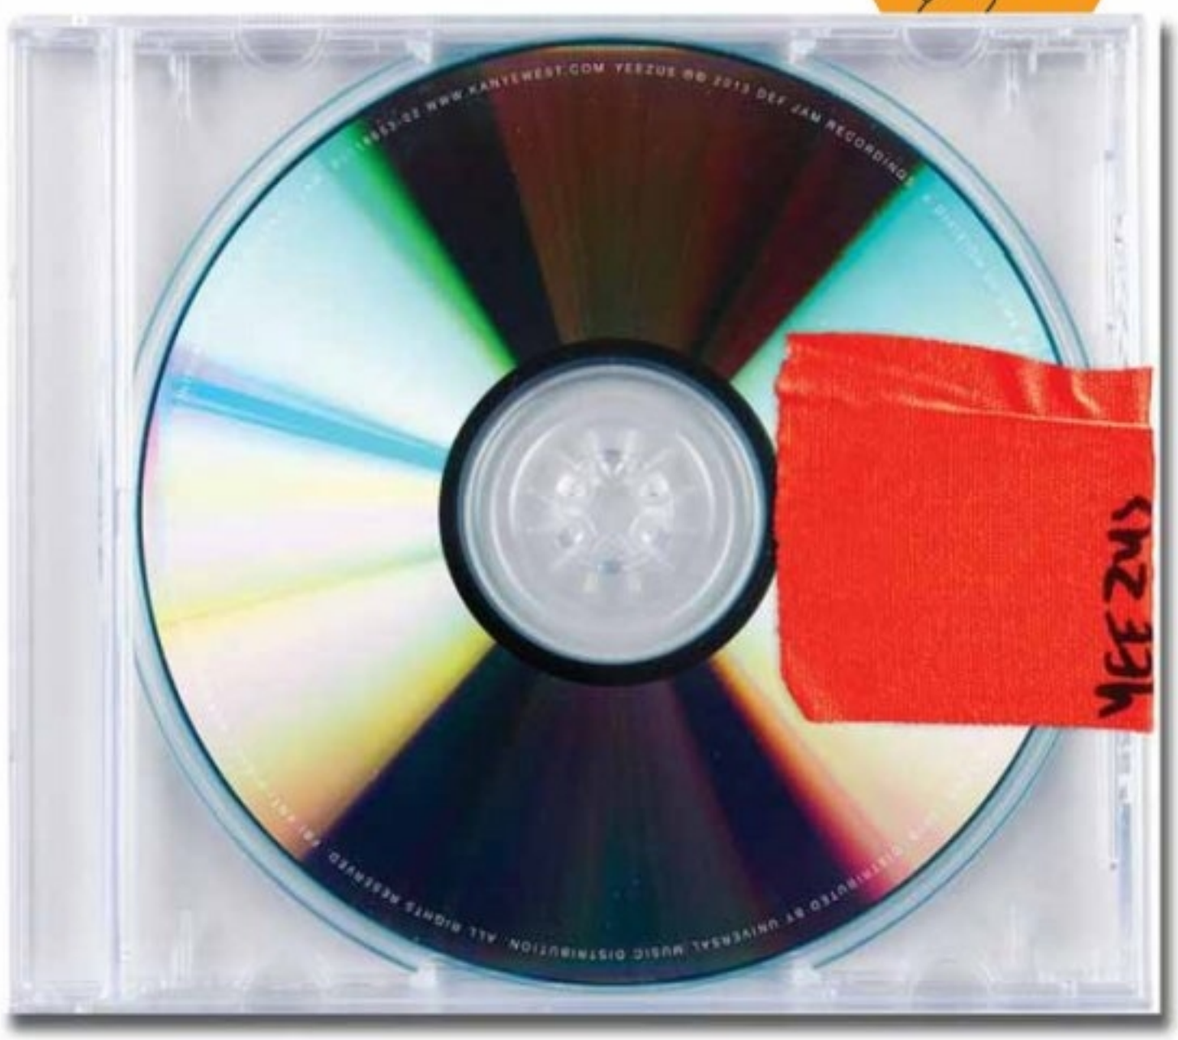
"Everyone gets to hear it at the same time, before reading any reviews or forming any opinions," says Gillis. "I think it's worked out great for me in the past, but for future releases, I have been actively thinking about giving it some short advance notice. Doing it in a strategic way can be helpful for giving it proper context."

So does that mean we can expect a new sneak attack from Girl Talk soon? If we told you, it wouldn't really be a sneak attack, would it?

The new blueprint for big releases

BLIPP THIS

Trend. David Bowie, Boards of Canada, Daft Punk, Kanye West and now Jay-Z are revolutionizing the way musicians release their work. It's called the sneak attack!



When Jay-Z put out "The Blueprint 3" in September 2009, most of his fans had known about its arrival for the better part of a year. And in the months leading up to the release, the rapper would gradually share the title, track list, artwork and names of guest appearances to slowly and steadily amp up expectations for the album's eventual release.

Four years later and Jay-Z is using a totally different blueprint. Earlier this month, during the fifth game of the NBA Finals, he appeared in a commercial promoting "Magna Carta Holy Grail," a brand new album that fans were hearing about for the first time, scheduled for release on the Fourth of July, less than a month after the announcement.

"The Internet is like the wild west," he says at one point during the three-minute spot. "We need to write the new rules."

He is just one of a growing number of major artists this year writing new rules. In January, David Bowie broke a decade of musical silence with a cryptic video that appeared on YouTube on midnight of his 66th birthday. Then, in March he released "The Next Day," a full-length album that reportedly not even all of the top brass at his publicity company knew about until just days before its arrival. And Kanye West only made fans aware of last week's release, "Yeezus," when he tweeted about it at the beginning of May. What these albums share is secret hard work behind the scenes, with a rushed approach and artwork that appears to just be dashed off the night before. Bowie's album cover is just a white square covering the album jacket for his 1977 album, "Heroes." West's album cover is just a picture of a compact disc with a piece of red duct tape on the case.

"To be able to announce, 'This is now,' I see it as part of music marketing today that is on crack cocaine," says music industry veteran and author of the upcoming book, "The Artist's Guide to Success in the Music Business," Loren Weisman. "Because if you're telling me it's coming in six months, I don't want to hear it."

Steve Knopper, a contributing editor for Rolling Stone, and the author of "Appetite for Self-Destruction: The Spectacular Crash of the Record Industry in the Digital Age," says perhaps the music business has almost come to a place of acceptance with today's consumer culture.

"In the record industry this wasn't really possible before," he says. "Ten or 15 years ago it wasn't possible at all technology-wise, because they couldn't rush out an album that quickly. And then, up until the last few years, nobody wanted to do it even if they could because they were so scared of the Internet. They were so scared that, 'If we release something too quickly and we don't have the whole thing completely under control then people are going to pirate this!' But now it seems like no one cares. It's like, 'I have an album! Let's just get it out!'"

In the commercial for "Magna Carta Holy Grail," Jay-Z shares his marketing strategy, and it doesn't sound much more complicated than the last clause that Knopper outlined.

"The idea is to really finish the album and drop it," he says, "giving it to the world at one time and letting them share it."

Advanced marketing for superstars

The fans: Your 'absolute best ambassadors'

Mike King, a former product manager at Rykodisc, who teaches music marketing courses at Berklee College of Music, says the sneak attack approach is not just due to the instant gratification of the Internet. It's also the personal nature of social media.

"If you look at the things that labels used to use to market music, like commercial radio and MTV, all of these places that labels used to spend their way into don't exist, but what does exist are these communities of hardcore fans," he says. "If you sneak it out to those people, they will be your absolute best ambassadors."

Someone still respects the power of art

These guys were named Russian Cultural Ambassadors. / BIG HASSLE

Interview. Someone Still Loves You Boris Yeltsin's name earned them a trip to Russia.

When Someone Still Loves You Boris Yeltsin chose their name back in high school, they had no intention of making a political statement. Thirteen years later, however, recent events have brought them closer to the man in question than anyone could have dreamed.

After being specially invited by the Boris Yeltsin Foundation, SSLYBY became the first American band to ever play and headline Old Nu, Russia's largest winter music festival, this past January. But that's just where the story begins.

"I thought it was a horrible joke and one of my friends was messing with me," says Phil Dickey. "We figured out that it was real and the Boris Yeltsin Foundation was sponsoring a big music festival in Yekateringburg where Yeltsin began his political career. They named us cultural ambassadors for a day — which we are all putting on our résumés. We ate lunch with Boris Yeltsin's friends and his personal translator at an elementary school. We ate borscht and they gave us seven bottles of vodka. A national news crew followed us around the whole time, and they made us perform Boris Yeltsin's favorite song on the spot. A lot of the stuff that happened we couldn't make up."

Taking those memories home with them, the band immediately returned to their attic studio in Springfield, Mo., to start writing a new album. "We were sleep deprived and jet-lagged, but I was itching to get these songs down. Any band that gets to play music and travel is very fortunate. But you lose the plot when you start thinking about popularity and the business side," Dickey says. "This really was the true moment where we thought about how this nonsense band name in high school connected these words that we put together, and our whole art project somehow got us to Russia. .... It was the one time in my life where I thought, 'Words have power, art has power.'"

The resulting "Fly by Wire" won't be out until September, but the results are filled with rhythmically ripe tracks of revelry fit for the last rays of summer. Taking bits of Russian imagery from the people, literature and art they internalized, the record soars and swoons with lush melodies, hushed harmonies and catchy-as-hell pop gems.

Kat Von D and Deadmau5 are over

What starts on Twitter ends on Twitter for Kat Von D and DJ Deadmau5.

The celebrity duo became engaged over the social networking site six months ago. Deadmau5 tweeted a picture of a black diamond engagement ring adorned with skulls, writing, "I can't wait for Christmas so … Katherine Von Drachenberg, will you marry me?" Von D accepted.

Six months later, they are kaput.

"Man, I'm a fool," Von D wrote on Twitter Wednesday night. "Cheating on your loved one is the most hurtful thing one could do. I hate to have to admit, that this relationship is indeed over."

Deadmau5, whose real name is Joel Zimmerman, decided to then take the conversation off of Twitter and on to a more personal space — Facebook. He had "relations with another woman" during a break the couple took.

"Following that, Kat and I reconciled and I acknowledged being intimate with another person while we were estranged," he continued. "We did move past those issues and I proposed to Kat in mid-December. At the end of June, it was clear that the relationship was not working and we mutually ended the engagement. I was not, at any point, unfaithful to Kat during our time together."

Man, if a grown man who performs house music while dressed like a deranged Mickey Mouse and a reality TV star can't make it, who can?

Stars and strangers alike attend Gandolfini funeral

Jamie-Lynn Sigler sobbed at the funeral of James Gandolfini on Thursday in New York City. / GETTY

Jamie-Lynn Sigler, who played Tony's daughter Meadow on "The Sopranos," sobbed in front of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in NYC on Thursday morning at the funeral of James Gandolfini.

The New York Times reports that almost the entire cast of "The Sopranos" was there, including Edie Falco, Joe Pantoliano, Dominic Chianese, Steve Schirripa, Aida Turturro, Vincent Curatola and Michael Imperioli. New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, Hilaria and Alec Baldwin, John Turturro and David Chase were also on hand to say goodbye to the famed actor.

In an somewhat unheard-of move, the public was also allowed to attend. The Times reports that two lines formed before the service: One for those who knew Gandolfini personally and one for those who didn't. One of those waiting in that line was fan Gwen Gibbs, who drove from Kentucky to give her respects. "I am not sure how to put it in words," she says. "He made the character of Tony Soprano feel like a real person, like someone you knew. When I heard he had died, I hoped it was a hoax."

Messing on sneezing and summer

Now that "Smash" is over, Debra Messing is doing what everyone does when they lose their job — become a paid celebrity spokesperson. In this case, it's for Zyrtec.

"When I became an actress allergies became a real problem because it would affect my ability to work," she said, in the interview we got through the pharmaceutical company (welcome to the world of celebrity interviewing!). "I can [now] do the recreational things I want as well as work outside."

So what is she planning? "Spending some lazy time with my son [Roman]," she said. "He's worked really hard in school and I've worked really hard on 'Smash,' so just being able to spend quality time together is what I want."

When it comes to feeding her dogs, Olivia Roszkowski goes homemade.
PROVIDED

This home cook throws pets more than a bone

Food. No need for a doggie bag. Olivia Roszkowski feeds her pets out of her fridge.

Since your dog is a bona fide family member, diet is important.

Many store-bought pet foods contain allergens like wheat and dairy that are unhealthy for our cuddly pals.

There was even a major recall of some brand-name dog foods in 2007.

Olivia Roszkowski had two puppies at the time and realized the importance of giving dogs the best-quality food.

As a culinary student learning to cook for herself and other humans, Roszkowski decided to adopt that knowledge for her dogs.

After the switch, "I saw a difference in their coats, in their energy levels and in their general disposition," she says.

As for ingredients, she sticks to animal protein and organic, seasonal veggies.

"When you cook at home, you know exactly what you're putting in your food," she says. "You have quality control."

When transitioning to a homemade-food diet, the change should be gradual. Stay away from chocolate, grapes, garlic and onions, as those can be poisonous. But dogs do like variety, so switch it up.

"People tend to stick with one food if it works," she says. "Variety ensures dogs will get all their nutrients."

Recipe. Gluten-Free Turkey & Zucchini Bread

Ingredients

Yield: 4 cups

- ¼ cup organic coconut oil, plus more for greasing
- 2 cups boneless, cooked, free-range turkey breast, shredded
- 1 small zucchini, grated (about 1 cup)
- 2 organic eggs, beaten
- 1 cup quinoa flour (can substitute brown rice flour)

This bread can be made in advance and frozen for a quick and easy weekday doggie dinner. The crisp exterior and chewy center is sure to please any canine palate.

Directions

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Grease a baking dish with coconut oil. Stir the coconut oil, turkey, zucchini, eggs and flour in a medium bowl, until well combined. Transfer to baking dish and bake for 30 minutes or until golden. Slice and cool before serving to your dog. Refrigerate any leftovers.

DID YOU KNOW?

Anxiety

FISH & BONE

No. 7

Who doesn't love fireworks? Or a wild summer thunderstorm? Or a road trip! Summer wouldn't be the same without them! But some pets are overwhelmed with anxiety during fireworks, thunderstorms, or travel. Just like us, animals are born with temperaments that can range from mellow to jumpy. And many have a history of neglect or abuse that brings acute anxiety in response to loud noises, travel, traffic, people, or just being left alone.

So what can you do? In our 13 years of helping customers with pets, we've seen what works (and what doesn't). The Thundershirt™ wraps snugly, stimulating calming 'touch points', & works so universally it's guaranteed. Rescue Remedy™, a flower essence often recommended by vets, can be added to drinking water to calm on an emotional level. The Comfort Zone™ plug-in diffuser continuously emits a pheromone signaling safety & security. HomeoPet's homeopathic remedies address anxiety on an 'energetic' level. We also rely on a few trusted calming treats with valerian, melatonin, tryptophan and/or colostrum.

tip

When you know a triggering event like storms or fireworks are coming, make extra time for exercise & play. Tired pets are happy, less reactive pets. Plan ahead. Try out solutions before the storm, fireworks, or road trip occurs so you know which works best for your pet. Anxiety is easier to prevent than to reverse.

PARTY

City of Cambridge Dance Party

June 28, 7-11 p.m.
Outside Cambridge City Hall
795 Mass. Ave., Cambridge
Free, 617-349-4301
www.cambridgema.gov
Why go dancing at some sweaty, dark club when the weather's so nice? Why not join the fray at this annual outdoor party sponsored by the City of Cambridge? The street will be closed off, a DJ will be spinning tunes and a light show will be projected on the surrounding buildings. As local government invitations go, it sure beats jury duty!

MOVIE

'Raiders of the Lost Ark'

July 1, 7 p.m.
Coolidge Corner Theatre
290 Harvard St., Brookline
$10, 617-734-2500
www.coolidge.org
George Lucas and Steven Spielberg's classic archaeological action-adventure yarn took the spirit of the swashbuckling movie serials and comics of the '30s and '40s and infused it with an ironic wink that was pure '80s. The result was popcorn-munching gold. That first rolling-ball sequence packs more excitement in 10 minutes than most similar movies have in two hours.

BENEFIT

'Shifty Sounds' aka 'I Know Someone Who Knows Jed Hammel'

June 30, 8 p.m.
TT the Bear's
10 Brookline St., Cambridge
$10, 617-492-BEAR
www.ttthebears.com
This event is like the real-life equivalent of a Kickstarter drive. We could just say that it's a benefit, but it's more than that. It's a night of music and images to raise funds for the fourth annual Filmshift Film Festival. Organizers promise that it's the first in a series of events celebrating the different talented musicians, filmmakers and artists that are thriving in Boston (and most of the ones here sort of know Jed Hammel, which is how this event got its especially long subtitle). The lineup includes Garvy J and the Secret Pockets of Hope and Resistance, Ruby Rose Fox, Pretendica (featuring members of Letters to Cleo, Orbit and WFNX), a special acoustic set from Air Traffic Controller and DJ sets from David Day, Ryan Brown and the man of the evening, Jed Hammel. Who is this guy anyway?

Art

'Composite Landscapes: Photomontage and Landscape Architecture'

Through Sept. 2
Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum
280 The Fenway, Boston
$12-$15, 617-566-1401
www.gardnermuseum.org
This contemporary group exhibition focuses on landscape art, tracing the evolution of composite photography from its cut-and-paste origins to its present digitally assisted ascendency. Here we are confronted with landscape seen through a postmodern lens, for which depiction and dissection are one and the same.

Street Spinz: Jackie Gately

What was the last song you listened to?
Adele — "Someone Like You." [Editor's note: this is our second Street Spinz interviewee in a row who gave that answer!]

Who are your top three favorite artists?
The Foo Fighters, the Temptations and Billy Joel.

What's one song you've got on your iPod you'd be embarrassed for people to know about?
Maybe "Stop in the Name of Love" by Diana Ross and the Supremes.

Going to any shows this summer that you're psyched about?
The Pat Benatar Concert on Aug. 21. I think I'm going to have to go to that one because I couldn't get tickets to the Rolling Stones!

Horoscope

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. If you don't expect too much from a social connection, you won't be disappointed. Of course, you should still be friendly with everyone you meet.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. It's best not to make any last-minute changes to an important matter that you're trying to wrap up. Things are likely to work out as you anticipate, or, perhaps, even better.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. In a matter that directly affects your work, don't underestimate your competition. This does not mean that all your adversaries are stronger — it just means you should watch your back.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. A wise associate might influence you to change your mind about something. Don't berate yourself for doing so; it'll turn out to be a wise choice.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20. Take advantage of an opportunity to catch up with an acquaintance whom you've been neglecting of late. You'll be glad you did.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb 18. Follow your judgment regarding an important career decision. Advice from others could only muddy the waters.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. There is a strong possibility that you will learn a valuable lesson. The knowledge you'll gain will be used later to further your aims.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Both your intuitive perceptions and your logic are sharper than usual. Both will help you make the decisions you need to make.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Even if you aren't an original thinker, chances are someone you hang out with is. You'll know how to put his or her ideas to good use.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Anything that calls for a financial risk might not work out. However, involvements requiring hard work will pay off reliably. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Keep DOMA in perspective

Some perspective on the recent Supreme Court rulings may be helpful. DOMA being struck down doesn't mean religious institutions now have to conduct same-sex marriages, merely that such marriages will be recognized by the law as equal to any other marriage between two people. And the Court did not strike down Proposition 8, but simply ruled that the defendants lacked legal standing to sue; Prop 8 was already repealed by the voters, and so its day is done.
JOSEPH CONNELL, VIA EMAIL

Yesterday, Metro underscored the existence of liberal bias in journalism. A page devoted only to celebrities who feel a certain way was the most blatant. But all of the articles went beyond reporting the news of the Supreme Court striking down the Defense of Marriage Act and into offering opinions. As a supporter of civil unions and equal rights for gays under the law, I feel that the sacrament of matrimony is between one man and one woman. Metro [on June 27] tried to equate that opinion with supporting segregation. No, these are two completely different issues, and, instead of imagined bigoted opinions from Sean Penn expressed to win a one-man argument, actually talk to people who feel that marriage is the issue, not discrimination.

FANTASY

ADAM LEVITAN, JUST A GUY LIVING THE FANTASY

METRO'S FANTASY GURU BREAKS IT ALL DOWN FOR YOU EVERY WEEK

TOM'S TURKEYS: PATS OFFENSE SUDDENLY LOOKS AVERAGE

The Patriots have long been the NFL's offensive geniuses, thinking outside the box to create mismatches to put crooked numbers on the board. That genius is about to be put to the test.

Following Wednesday's release of Aaron Hernandez, the Patriots arguably have the worst group of pass-catchers in the entire NFL. What's Tom Brady to do?

Moving tight ends. Jake Ballard is technically next up on the tight end depth chart, but he is not Hernandez's backup. Last season, Hernandez lined up in the slot 41 percent of the time and out wide on 18 percent of his snaps. He was only a traditional, in-line tight end 36 percent of the time. The lumbering Ballard is not capable of filling that role — very few people on the face of the planet are. Expect Julian Edelman to get a long look at extended snaps. He was eating into Wes Welker's workload early last season before a hand injury stopped that momentum. Ballard will only have value if Rob Gronkowski (back surgery) starts the year on the PUP list. Tim Tebow is not a tight end.

Danny Boy. Danny Amendola was already in line for a big role as Wes Welker's clear-cut replacement. Now that Hernandez is gone and Gronk is in doubt, he's a threat to lead the entire NFL in targets. Amendola was reportedly impressive during spring practices, quickly gaining the trust necessary to play with Brady.

Sleeper alert. The mess at the "F" and "Y" positions in the Patriots' offense doesn't directly affect the battle happening at "X." That's the outside receiver spot, where Aaron Dobson will battle Mike Jenkins and fellow rookie Josh Boyce for the starting job. But, indirectly, the winner of the battle will project to see even more targets than originally anticipated.

Patriots quarterback Tom Brady will be throwing to plenty of unproven targets this season. / GETTY IMAGES

MLB pickups

Keep these names in mind if you are looking to tweak your fantasy baseball roster this week:

- Jedd Gyorko, 2B, Padres. Expected off the DL this weekend. Had eight homers and 17 RBIs in the 35 games prior to his injury.
- Nathan Eovaldi, SP, Marlins. Finally healthy, Eovaldi has 10 strikeouts in his first 12 innings of the season. Can hit 98 MPH on the gun.

C's looking to move KG, Pierce in trade

NBA. A blockbuster move with the Brooklyn Nets was imminent Thursday, June 27.

The Nets and Celtics were discussing a blockbuster trade on draft day Thursday, June 27, according to Yahoo Sports, as Brooklyn inquired about the availability of landing Kevin Garnett and Paul Pierce. The trade had reached ownership level by late Thursday afternoon, according to the report.

According to the report, the Celtics would likely receive a combination of players and picks in exchange for the two future Hall of Famers. Gerald Wallace, Kris Humphries, Tomike Shengelia and possibly three first-round picks were the names and amount of draft picks being discussed. The draft picks the Celtics would likely receive would be for the 2014, 2016 and 2018 drafts.

Jason Terry could also be a part of the trade, according to Yahoo.

Garnett would have to waive his no-trade clause for a deal to take place.

The move would unite Garnett and Pierce with one-time rival Jason Kidd, who recently took the head coaching reins with Brooklyn.
